ITP 104: Final Project Summary

The purpose of this personal website is to build a portfolio that showcases the work I've done in my academic career while offering insight into me as a young professional. The hope is this website can offer an idea to professionals and recruiters on how my various skills can transfer well in prospective jobs and industries. Of course, this website also serves as a personal time capsule on the progress I've made in advancing my design and programming skills through the assignments I have completed. I plan on linking this website on my LinkedIn and job applications to offer more information about me :)
